AUSPICIOUS OPENING OF SEATTLE'S BIG EXPOSITION

President Gives Signal Which Starts $10,000,000 Show in Great Northwest.

CITY FULL OF VISITORS

Thousands Cheer J. J. Hill When Introduced as Speaker at Opening Exercises.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 1.—The Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition, that cost $10,000,000 and the first sod of which was turned exactly two years ago, was officially opened at noon with fitting splendor and ceremony with a great multitude in attendance. The military parade, the speeches, President Taft's signal, the magic responses all were carried out exactly as planned. Even the sun, which had shone fitfully during the morning came out at noon to take part in the general rejoicing and flooded the beautiful fair grounds with light.

When James J. Hill was introduced in the opening exercises a tumult ensued that recalled the demonstration for favorites at national political conventions, except that here 40,000 people were cheering simultaneously for only one man who waited several minutes before he could begin his address. The management in their nicely calculated program had omitted to count on this ovation, and when President Taft pressed the golden key at noon and touched off the big signal gong, he cut Most Rev. Bishop Keator's benediction.

Japan's Visitors Applauded.

A striking feature of the parade was the popular applause for the Japanese visitors of the cruisers Aso and Soya. The arrival at the reviewing stand of Rear Admiral Ijichi and his staff gave the first opportunity to the waiting thousands to cheer. A few minutes later Admiral Uriel Sebree, commanding the Pacific squadron appeared with his staff. A great shout went up as the American saluted and the platform to greet the Japanese. Admiral Sebree advanced to Admiral Ijichi and held out his hand, which was grasped by the latter over the salute. This act of amity by representatives of the two great nations was the signal for another long outburst of cheering. The Americans and Japanese officers were introduced all around and engaged in conversation.

The committee in charge of the parade reversed at the last moment the order of the Japanese and American soldiers and put the Americans in front. The Americans received the tribute that everywhere is given to the navy, but the cheering was greatest when the brown men came before the stand. The American officers enthusiastically applauded them, as the Japanese, in a milder, but equally sincere way, had done when the Americans passed a moment before.

After disbandment, luncheon was served to the Japanese and American soldiers in the Pavilion tea houses, one of the Japanese government buildings.

Simple Ceremony.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The ceremony of pressing the golden key in the East room of the White House, by which President Taft today formally opened the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition, was simple. There was a delay of 15 minutes at Seattle in completing arrangements, and it was 3:15 p. m. (Washington time) when President

FIVE CARS START IN COAST-TO-COAST RACE

Contest Finally Sanctioned by the American Automobile Association.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Five motor cars, competing for a $2,000 trophy offered by Robert Guggenheim, started today from the New York city hall on a 4,000-mile endurance run to Seattle.

Mayor McClellan sent them away with a gold-mounted starting pistol at 2 o'clock, just before President Taft pressed the button in Washington that officially opened the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition in Seattle. The cars and their drivers were:

Two 15 horsepower Ford runabouts, Frank Kulyl and B. W. Scott; 30 horsepower Acme, George Salzman; 40-horsepower Shawmut, G. A. Pettingill; 45 horsepower Italia Gus Lechleitner.

There were originally 13 entrants. When first proposed, the race was discountenanced by the Manufacturers' Contest association, which does not approve speed contests in violation of the law. The American Automobile association took the ground that as an international contest it should be sanctioned. The rules were then amended to provide that the route within the law as far as the Louisiana purchase across the plains and over the Rockies go-as-you-please.

NIGHT SESSIONS OF SENATE TO BE HELD

EFFORT TO HASTEN ACTION ON TARIFF MEASURE.

Consideration of the Cotton Schedule Is Begun Smoot and Lodge Are Heard.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—After, in effect, receiving information from Chairman Aldrich that beginning with tomorrow, night sessions for the consideration of the cotton cloth schedule would be held, the Senate today began consideration of the cotton schedule. This portion had been passed over on the first reading with the understanding that many amendments would be offered and that much time would be necessary for its discussion.

There were not many speeches, but those made were of considerable length, Senators Smoot and Lodge, both majority members of the finance committee, were the principal orators, and both spoke in support of the committee provisions. The Utah senator discussed the subject from a technical standpoint, concluding that the Senate bill does not, in reality, increase the duties contemplated by the Dingley law. He undertook, however, to show that by various rulings of customs authorities these duties had been reduced an average of 30 per cent. It was the purpose of the committee to carry into effect the existing law. He declared that the committee had been influenced neither by manufacturers nor importers.

Gets a Jolt from Dolliver.

Senator Lodge gave especial attention to the cotton schedule, but incidentally spoke of the general policy of the Republican party with reference to tariff revision. He contended that there had been no intention of lowering the tariff demand, but that the purpose of the party had been only to revise the tariff so to protect American manufacturers against cheap foreign labor. He declared New England factories were returning only small dividends to their owners, and traced the general increase in the prices to the enlarged volume of gold in the country, rather than to the advantages accruing from the protective system. He explained at length the process of mercerization in order to show that the protective rate allowed for this process was not excessive.

Sharp Exchange of Words.

Senator Dolliver took exception to a remark by Senator Aldrich. The Iowa Senator had offered an amendment to the cotton schedule providing for ad valorem rather than specific duties, whereupon Mr. Aldrich made incidental reference to Senators "who come here with importers' briefs."

Mr. Dolliver replied sharply, but when Mr. Aldrich explained that he had not meant any reflection, business proceeded with serenity.

Later the senator from Iowa said reflections upon his course had come from behind the doors of the finance committee. This was said in response to a defense by Senator Root of the board of general appraisers to which reference had been made by Mr. Dolliver.

At 5:05 p. m. the Senate adjourned until 10:30 a. m. tomorrow.

The House was in session only 13 minutes, adjourning until Thursday without transacting any business.

PORTRAIT OF JEFFERSON DAVIS ON SILVER SERVICE

BILOXI, Miss., June 1.—With a ball, a banquet and several receptions, exercises attendant upon the presentation of the silver service to the battleship Mississippi were closed here tonight.

Touching upon the matter of the portrait of Jefferson Davis engraved upon one of the principal pieces of the service, Governor Noel in his address at Pascagoula today, said the valor of Jefferson Davis as a soldier of the United States army as well as his record as secretary in the "ante-bellum days, entitled him to recognition by the federal government.

"However," continued the governor, "no doubt we would have had the picture placed on the service if nothing but the memory of Jefferson Davis as president of the Confederacy remained. Jefferson Davis like the men of Mississippi and the south, stood only for what he thought was right. If the country condemns him, you must condemn us."

MIDSHIPMEN CAN'T MARRY

WASHINGTON, June 1.—President Taft today approved a change in the naval regulations recommended by Secretary Meyer by which midshipmen are prohibited from marrying until the completion of the prescribed six years' course of training. No order existed in the United States naval regulations preventing the midshipmen from marrying and today's change in these regulations provides an absolute prohibition.

LYNCHERS APPEAR IN SUPREME COURT

UNPRECEDENTED SPECTACLE IN HIGHEST TRIBUNAL.

Officers Charged With Contempt for Permitting and Participating in Lynching of Negro.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The supreme court of the United States today was the scene of the arraignment of six men before its bar, which was an unprecedented spectacle in this, the highest tribunal in the nation. The prisoners consist of former Sheriff Joseph F. Shipp of Hamilton county, Tennessee, and his jailer deputy, Jeremiah Gibson, and Luther Williams, Nick Nolan, Henry Padgett and William Mayse, all of Chattanooga. They are the men who a week ago were found guilty by the court on the charge of contempt in permitting and participating in the lynching, in 1906, of a negro named Ed Johnson, after the supreme court had granted permission to him to bring his case to the supreme court on appeal.

Johnson had been found guilty of the crime of rape and was under sentence to be hanged. The granting of the appeal acted as a writ of supersedeas, and when the fact of this action became known in Chattanooga, where Johnson was in jail, and when the further fact that it would cause a postponement of the execution, if, indeed, it might not entirely prevent it, dawned upon the people of that city, there was considerable excitement, which culminated during the night following in a mob taking Johnson from the jail and hanging him.

The act was followed by the board as one of flagrant contempt, and immediately complaint was made to President Roosevelt, with the result that he placed the matter in the hands of the department of justice, which immediately took steps to ascertain the names of the participants in the lynching. Proceedings were then instituted against the sheriff and a number of his deputies as well as against about 20 citizens of Chattanooga. The inquiry which was subsequently made on behalf of the court, reduced this number to nine and the court's own investigation eliminated three others, leaving only six to be brought before the tribunal.

The offenders came into court today in a body. They were accompanied by officers of the law and by their attorneys.

MANAGERS PLACE BAN ON IMMORAL PLAYS

NEW YORK, June 1.—The determination of many theatrical managers to comply with the desire so insistently expressed of late from New York pulpits for cleaner plays took concrete form tonight in the withdrawal of "The Narrow Path" by John Montagu from the Hackett theater at the instance of Henry B. Harris, the owner.

Mr. Harris sent the following message to James K. Hackett, the lessee:

"I consider the performance now being given at the Hackett theater a nuisance. I want it stopped at once or I shall take steps to have it abated. I regret to be forced to serve such a notice but decency and the preservation of the public morals demand it."

CALHOUN CASE NEAR END

Famous Trial May Be Brought to a Close During the Present Week. Two Witnesses to Be Called.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1.—The trial of Patrick Calhoun, president of the United railroads, may be brought to an end during the present week. All the testimony today was of a secondary character and reference to absence of witnesses indicated that the case of the people was nearing completion.

Assistant District Attorney Francis J. Heney offered testimony to corroborate the statements of John H. Helms, at one time employed as a detective by the United railroads and then introduced a witness who had made a stenographic report of the confessions of supervisors trapped through the efforts of W. J. Burns.

At the close of the day's session, which opened the twenty-first week of the trial, it was evident that but few witnesses remained to be called, and attorneys for the defense were asked as to their intentions. Whether or not the defendant will present any witnesses in his own behalf could not be ascertained, but it is not believed that any extended case is to be offered by the attorneys for Calhoun.

TREASURY DEFICIT IS LESS THAN EXPECTED

Showing Is Much More Favorable Than Officials Had Anticipated.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The treasury deficit for May is shown by today's statement to have been $5,453,953. For the 11 months of the current fiscal year a deficit of $97,858,102 is indicated.

The available cash balance was $118,979,764 and the working balance $40,229,000. Total receipts for May were $53,382,810 and disbursements $58,786,265.

This showing is much more favorable than was expected by officials and indicates that the deficit for the full fiscal year will fall much short of the official estimate of $112,000,000. The working balance is not regarded as fully adequate to the probable needs of the treasury for any great length of time, and while the necessity for additional cash is not pressing, it is believed that officials will take advantage of the present money conditions throughout the country by calling on the national depositary banks for the return to the treasury of a large part of their holdings.

These banks now have deposits, subject to the treasury check, aggregating about $62,774,000, and it is believed the government interest would not suffer by a withdrawal of at least $20,000,000 of this sum.

Way receipts from customs were $27,872,095, an increase over May, 1908, of more than $8,000,000, but a decrease of more than $800,000 as compared with last month. Receipts from internal revenue aggregated $19,295,029 an [illegible] of more than $1,000,000 as he stated it would, [illegible] month past, and a slight increase over last month.

Disbursement for May were a little more than $4,000,000 in excess of those for May last year. There was a decrease in the civil and miscellaneous expenditures for May of $2,700,000, as compared with April this year, and an increase of about $1,000,000 on account of the navy. Pensions also increased about $3,000,000, and public works $3,500,000.

GERMAN YOUTH SACRIFICES FORTUNE FOR AMERICAN GIRL

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1.—Otto E. Schroeder, formerly clerk in a Los Angeles hotel, but the son of wealthy parents in Germany, the recent announcement of whose engagement to Miss Ida H. Taggart of Monrovia was followed quickly by a summons for his return home to serve in the army of Emperor William has decided to sacrifice the fortune awaiting him in the old country and make a home for himself in southern California. He made this announcement after visiting German Consul General Franz Bopp.

He came to this city, he said, to satisfy his father, a copper manufacturer of Plau, who wished him to undergo a physical examination for admission to the German army, but he has fully resolved not to go back home where a fortune to which he has fallen heir awaits him. He will take the examination however before returning to Los Angeles, where he expects soon to be married.

PHILADELPHIA IS QUIET

Little Disorder Due to Strike of Car Men—Big Demonstration Is Planned.

PHILADELPHIA, June 1.—The first ordinary business day since the beginning of the street car strike, Saturday, closed with conditions practically unchanged. By the aid of recruits hired in this and other cities, the company was enabled to run 700 of its 3,300 cars until nightfall, when no further attempt was made to continue the traffic.

There was little disorder and those arrested were held on trivial charges. Tonight, the mayor extended the time which saloons are allowed to remain open from 6 a. m. until 8 p. m.

President Timothy Healy of the International Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen and W. B. Mahone, president of the International Electricians union, are here tonight, and it is said that they will call out the union men employed in the power houses of the Rapid Transit company if the street car men do not win within a few days.

Labor leaders are planning a monster demonstration for Thursday, when they contemplate a parade of the members of the Building Trades council of Philadelphia. The members of the textile trades, numbering 40,000 or more, are expected to join the demonstration.

OFFICIAL OF COPPER COMPANY IS JAILED

GEORGE BAGLIN SENT TO THE TOMBS FOR CONTEMPT.

Must Remain Until Missing Books, Containing Evidence in Case of F. A. Heinze, Are Produced.

NEW YORK, June 1.—George Baglin, vice president of the United Copper company, was taken to the Tombs prison today and must remain there under an order of Judge Lacombe of the United States district court, until the missing books of the company, which contain evidence in the case of F. Augustus Heinze, are produced. A similar punishment hangs over Sanford Robinson, a prominent director of the company, whose case will be further considered by Judge Lacombe tomorrow. Both men are alleged to have permitted the spiriting away of the books that were under subpoena. Baglin testified before the grand jury that he had overheard Robinson and one of the Heinze brothers conspiring to remove the books and had interposed no objection.

"Nothing remains for me to do but to commit you for contempt," said Judge Lacombe, after hearing Baglin's admission.

"You had no right to stand idly by while men were plotting for the removal of books wanted in a grand jury investigation. An officer or an employe can not so act with impunity."

In Robinson's case it was shown that he had refused to testify before the grand jury [illegible] conversation with one of the Heinze brothers, maintaining that both he and Heinze were attorneys for the company and that their conversation was privileged.

Judge Lacombe declined to accept this plea.

"Members of the bar," he said, "who choose to become officers or directors of companies and who are accused as directors of conspiring to violate the law, can not evade the challenge by claiming to be members of the bar. If the minutes of the grand jury show that the situation is as I now understand it to be, I shall certainly commit Robinson for contempt."

TRUSTS ARE BEING PROBED.

Commissioner of Corporations Is Investigating Combines.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Herbert Knox Smith, commissioner of corporations, conferred with President Taft today concerning investigations in his bureau.

Mr. Smith says some investigations have been on for two years and that only the inadequacy of his force prevented the clearing up of all the matters at once.

The so-called steel trust and its business, the so-called harvester trust and all machinery combinations, cotton exchanges, lumber, water transportation, water powers and tobacco are the principal matters under investigation. The bureau has been working upon the affairs of the harvester "trust" for two years and about all of the material available in the United States has been secured.

HELD FOR MURDERING WIFE

Dr. Cleminson, Chicago Physician, Attends Funeral of Spouse Under Police Guard.

CHICAGO, June 1.—Dr. Haldine Cleminson today was formally booked for the murder of his wife, Mrs. Nora Jane Cleminson. He attended the funeral under police guard.

The woman's stomach, later was placed in the hands of experts for chemical examination.

Chief of Detectives O'Brien stated that Dr. Cleminson's declaration that his wife had been chloroformed by burglars and that he himself suffered from the poison, was utterly unworthy of credence. The money and spoons which the physician is quoted as reporting being stolen, were found in a closet of his home.

A woman to whom Dr. Cleminson is said to have sent flowers, was discovered to be Miss J. M. Berg, 21 years old, a patient at the Chicago Union hospital from May 20 to May 26. According to Dr. E. E. Fangboner, house physician at the hospital, Dr. Cleminson made almost daily visits to the hospital while Miss Berg was there, and left large bunches of flowers each time. It has been impossible to locate Miss Berg.

EGYPT IS LARGELY RULED BY ENGLAND

BRITISH ARMY OF OCCUPATION STILL IN ORIENT.

Promises to Evacuate Broken Repeatedly—Evil, It Is Feared, May Come of Continuance.

III. ENGLISH RULE IN EGYPT

By Frederic J. Haskin.

CAIRO, Egypt, May 14.—The Government of Edward VII of England imposes its will upon the government of Abbas II of Egypt by means of an army of occupation, some 5,000 strong, and several men of war conveniently near to Alexandria. In every essential particular, Egypt is ruled by England as absolutely as is Ireland. The British make no claim to territorial rights in the valley of the Nile. Indeed, they recognize the authority of the Khedive, as well as the shadowy suzerainty of the Sultan, with full ceremonial regard. The British control is masked behind the simple machinery of an ordinary consulate-general. Yet the ministers of state must act as their British advisers indicate, and the Khedive cannot exercise any of the important prerogatives of his station without the consent of the British consul-general.

Promise Won't Fulfilled.

England promised, a quarter of a century ago, to leave Egypt at once. The promise was not fulfilled. Since that time the English have declared again and again, at the insistence of Europe, that they would withdraw the "army of occupation" as soon as order was fully restored in Egypt. That promise still stands, but evacuation as [illegible] seems to an understanding, and since that time there has been no power to suggest, be it in ever so mild a manner, that it was time for the British to move on. Yet it is not fair to condemn "Perfidious Albion" for its square-mile fever, and to accuse the British of taking territory without any excuse, on the basis of the present peculiar condition in Egypt. When England came to Egypt it was absolutely necessary for some outside power to interfere to restore order in the country. During the quarter of a century of British occupation the condition of the Egyptians has improved so materially that it must be admitted that the English have done more for the Egyptians than for themselves.

When Ferdinand De Lesseps persuaded the Egyptian government, then prosperous and free of debt, to engage in the Suez Canal project, he plunged the knife into the heart of Egypt. When the miserable fellaheen were scooping the sand out of that great ditch with their bare hands, they dug the grave of Egyptian nationality. Ambitious to be considered an enlightened ruler the Khedive Ismail lent all the credit of his country to the canal, robbed his people of everything they had and brought his nation into bankruptcy.

Demanded Pound of Flesh.

The European bondholders demanded their pound of flesh, and the united powers of Europe proceeded to cut it from Ismail's heart. An international commission was named to administer the finances of the country and to arrange to pay the interest coupons. An international court was established before which even the state of Egypt must answer to its creditors. Finally, the British and French governments practically assumed control of the state. Ismail rebelled against his slavery and was banished to Europe. His son Tewfik was made Khedive and the dual control continued.

Then came a movement among the Egyptians to expel the Europeans, which culminated in a rebellion led by Arabi Pasha. That rebellion brought about anarchy in the country. The British invited the French to join in an armed intervention. The French declined and the English took the responsibility upon themselves. Alexandria was bombarded and a portion of it destroyed, and shortly afterwards the British soldiers met and defeated the Arabist army at Tel-el-Kebir. Two days later, on September 15, 1882, the British army occupied Cairo and here it is today.

A year later Sir Evelyn Baring was sent to Cairo as Consul-General. He assumed practical control of Egyptian affairs and set out to enforce a program of reform. Later, he was raised to the peerage as the Earl of Cromer and he remained at the head of affairs in Cairo until he [illegible] years ago. As a matter of fact, "England in Egypt" has meant simply "Lord Cromer in Egypt." He complained bitterly of the lack of any definite policy of the British government to support him, but for all that he ruled almost with the power of a Sultan and always with the conviction that he was doing right. Opposition to Lord Cromer personally was very

INDIANAPOLIS EDITORS RESIST REMOVAL FOR TRIAL

PUBLISHERS WIN POINT

Will Be Allowed to Introduce Evidence Denying Malice Intent Will Be Weighed.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 1.—Delevan Smith and Charles Williams, editors of the Indianapolis News, today successfully resisted, for the moment at least, their removal to the District of Columbia to stand trial for criminal libel on account of publishing articles intimating that there was enormous graft in the Panama canal purchase.

Lawyers for the publishers denied malice in the stories and editorials complained of. They gained from Judge Anderson a ruling that evidence should be introduced to this effect.

The defendants committed no offense for which they could be removed to another district for trial, they said. Attorneys for the government vigorously resisted the introduction of testimony, but were overruled.

Judge Anderson, in his ruling, declared malice in a civil action was different from malice in a criminal case. Implied malice in a newspaper publication might be sufficient to justify a judgment for damages against the publisher, but in a criminal action a different degree of malice was required—it must be express malice, he said.

Intent Will Be Weighed.

"Of course, there is back of this the intent," said Judge Anderson. "The owner of a newspaper might well be held civilly for anything that appeared in his paper, because in the case who put it there are his agents, but when it comes to a question of criminal liability for publication of an article, it is different.

"As, for example, if the proprietor of a newspaper in New York [illegible] could not cite this illustration for a western paper, which [illegible] but support the proprietor of a New York paper should be off for six months cruising in his yacht in his absence, a vicious article appeared in his paper. Should he be held criminally? It does not occur to me that he could be held criminally liable.

"I am speaking about the ultimate facts. If the owner is not present, he actually knew nothing about the publication and could not possibly be held guilty of the crime."

Questioning Charles R. Williams, editor of the News, Assistant District Attorney McNamara drew out that Mr. Williams had not written the editorials complained of, in which it was declared to be deplorable that the parts of C. P. Taft, Douglas Robinson, William Nelson Cromwell, and J. Pierpont Morgan in the Panama transaction should be investigated. He had, however, approved them. Mr. Williams said the publication of the editorials, he thought, was in the interest of public morality and integrity.

"Biggest Thing in Campaign."

Louis Howland, who wrote the editorials and handed them to Mr. Williams, told the court that he wrote them because he though the subject was "the biggest thing in the campaign." He had made no personal investigation into the records of the Senate inquiry and he did not know positively that C. P. Taft was interested in the Panama transfer. A newspaper did not have the time to make investigations, he said.

Delevan Smith testified that he had no personal knowledge of the editorials before they were published, as Mr. Williams had full charge of the editorial page.

Ernest I. Lewis, a staff correspondent of the News, declared he had no instructions from his paper as to how he should handle the Panama canal matter in his dispatches.

SCHOOL CENSUS SHOWS INCREASE 621 IN YEAR

Total of 8,194 Children of School Age Estimated Population of District 40,970 People.

The revision of the school census of district No. 11, completed yesterday shows that there 8,194 children of school age in the city, an increase of 621 over the enumeration of last year. The total comprises 4,018 boys and 4,146 girls. The total of 7,577 [illegible] year consists of 3,813 boys and 3,945 girls, showing that there are 418 more boys of school age enumerated in the city than [illegible] year, while there are 201 more girls. The girls are ahead of the boys in the enumeration this year by 468 [illegible], a decrease of 215 from the lead they held last year. More than $90,000 will [illegible] to the school fund from the enumeration shown in the census, which [illegible] representing an apportionment of approximately $10 [illegible] the county levy and [illegible] the state fund.

According to the [illegible] of multiplying the total of [illegible] by five to ascertain the total [illegible] within the school [illegible] 40,970 [illegible] population.

STRIKERS IN M'CLOUD THREATEN VIOLENCE

Militia Ordered From Sacramento to Scene of Trouble Conflicting Reports.

SACRAMENTO, June 1.—Five companies of militia, Second regiment, a detachment from the Fifth regiment and troop B, have been ordered to proceed to McCloud tomorrow morning. The order was the result of a telegram sent late today from the scene of the trouble by Colonel A. W. Woodbury, assistant to the adjutant general. The telegram said that the strikers were preparing to seize the electric light plant and plunge the town in darkness and that the situation was very serious. A special train has been chartered and arrangements have been made to send it through to McCloud in 12 hours.

SISSON, Cal., June 1.—There is no change in the strike situation at McCloud, where 600 employes of the McCloud River Lumber company are on strike, according to the latest reports received here. Sheriff Howard, who is at McCloud, says that he is less worried over the outlook than he was yesterday, and the report that he has asked the governor for the assistance of the militia canot be verified. Assistant General Bradbury of the militia is at McCloud, but he refused to discuss the situation.

The strikers, most of whom are Italians, parade the streets of the town daily. They held a big open-air dance today by way of variation.

CAPITALISTS IN JAIL

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 1.—E. R. Kinman and F. L. Garley, Americans, the latter a capitalist from New York, are in jail tonight, held without bail, as the result of a fight with the police today.

They represent a syndicate which proposes to erect an amusement park at Deadman Island, which the city claims is a part of the public domain. The New Yorkers claim the island under a lease from the Dominion government, granted 11 years ago.

A platoon of police, headed by Chief Chamberlain, landed on the island today and arrested Kinman under a warrant charging him with having maliciously damaged the trees of a public park. Kinman was taken to the police station and released on $1,000 bail. In company with Garley, he returned to the island, and, armed with clubs, the two men attacked the police. Constable Kuney was rendered unconscious by a blow, and another officer was knocked down before the Americans were disarmed.

SENTENCED TO DEATH

DES MOINES, June 1.—John Junken, colored, murderer of Clara Rosen was tonight found guilty and was sentenced to death. He will hang the last Friday in July, 1910.

Tonight he was taken to Fort Madison for safekeeping.

Adjutant General Guy Logan of Des Moines, was in the court room when the sentence was pronounced. He stated tonight that there would be no need of militia to guard the prisoner as the verdict met with popular favor.

Junken confessed killing Clara Rosen February 3, with a stone. He crushed her skull. Her body was found by a searching party next morning.

ADMIRALS SPERRY AND URIU GUESTS OF HONOR

Dinner Given by Japanese Society of New York to Fleet Officers Last Night.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Vice Admiral Uriu of the Japanese navy and his old friend, Rear Admiral Charles S. Sperry, who brought the globe-trotting United States battleship fleet home from the Pacific, sat side by side tonight at the Hotel Astor as the guests of honor at a dinner given by the Japanese Society of New York.

The speeches of Admirals Uriu and Sperry were both brief. "We are both fighting men, not talking men," said the Japanese visitor. "As an Annapolis graduate, I am very deeply indebted to your country. Our whole nation, too, owes much to America. We shall repay you with lasting respect and friendship."

Rear Admiral Sperry spoke of the hospitality which Japan showed to the men of the battleship fleet during their stay there. "Never was there such good fellowship or such understanding between two nations," he said, "as was evidenced at that time. The kindness of Japan on that occasion will do much to bring the two nations into an unbreakable alliance of friendship and good will."

CHARGED WITH MURDER

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 1.—Charles A. Barr, who claims to be a bricklayer, was arrested tonight on suspicion of having strangled to death Laura Register, 26 years old, in Providence, R. I., on the night of May 16.

Barr was trying to sell a bracelet to a pawnbroker to obtain money to attend a prize fight when arrested. It is said by the officers that the bracelet has been identified as one worn by Miss Register when she was murdered.

WILL EXPLORE ALASKA

CHICAGO, June 1.—Prof. U. S. Grant of the bureau of geological department of Northwestern university and two students, D. F. Higgins and J. Jacobson, left today for Seattle, on their way to Alaska for exploration purposes.

The expedition will be under the jurisdiction of the government geological survey service, and will explore territory adjacent to Prince William sound and Cook inlet. It also will examine the island of Kodiak.

APPROPRIATIONS REDUCED

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The estimates of appropriations for the interior department for the fiscal year 1911, as approved by Secretary Ballinger, show a net decrease of $8,500,000 as compared with appropriations for 1910.

The reduction is made up largely in the estimates for army and navy pensions, the Indian service and the general land office.

Appropriations for the department for 1910 were approximately $184,000,000, while estimates for 1911 are approximately $175,000,000.

GUTHRIE, Okla., June 1.—Governor Haskell today issued a proclamation reopening the state liquor dispensary agencies that were established under provision of the prohibition law and closed last fall, when a proposed constitutional amendment affecting the agency system was voted down. Under the proclamation, agencies may be opened in towns of only 2,000 or more, or in county seats, without regard to population.

NEW YORK, June 1.—The will of Bridget Torpy, for 27 years a cook in the family of Mrs. N. B. Taft of this city, as filed for probate today, leaves $30,000, the savings of a lifetime, to James Edward Johnson, a negro who had been her assistant.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 1. Several thousand employes of the Republic Iron and Steel company today received an advance of 10 per cent in wages, effective at once. It is said that practically all other concerns which cut wages the first of April will restore the former scale before July.

strong at times. Agitation against the continuance of the British rule has been rife ever since the first troop of red coats wheeled into the citadel square in Cairo.

Two Sides to Question.

There are many who sympathize with this opposition. Even some of those who admit that British interference was a good thing in its time, proclaim that the time has ended and that only evil will come of a continuance of the present regime. On the other hand, the British in Egypt declare that they have done much good, but that much more remains to be done before they can withdraw from the country with safety to the natives, the Egyptians or the peace of the world. They declare that the Egyptians are not yet ready to take up the task of self government. Certain it is that the British government can show many good works as a justification for its apparent breach of faith in remaining in Egypt.

Taxation has been the burden of the life of the Oriental since the first day one man found that he could rule other others. In Egypt the taxes have been very onerous, and they have been light and but little under British rule. The money lent to the khedives by the money-lenders of Europe, contracted by the reckless Ismail, must be paid in full. The fellaheen who till the soil must pay. Although the taxes are still heavy, they are not as onerous as they once were. The first and one of the most important reforms initiated by the British was the institution of the tax receipt. Formerly, the fellah paid his taxes to the sheik and trusted to luck that he would not have to pay again. If the sheik needed money, or if the man higher up needed it, or if the Khedive needed it, the fellah had to pay again. The courbash, a dreadful whip made of hippopotamus hide, assisted the tax-gatherer to find the hidden store of coppers. Since the British came the peasant pays his taxes and is given a receipt. So long as he has that bit of paper the red-coated soldiers of England stand between him and the tax-gatherer.

No Taxes Paid by Wealthy.

Furthermore, in the old days, nobody but the fellaheen and the poorer people paid any taxes at all. The wealthy evaded payment by curying favor at court or by bold opposition to authority. Under British rule the rich as well as the poor must pay. Under the old regime a professional tax was imposed upon all persons who practiced one of the learned professions. This was always collected from the miserable fellah who could not read or write the government declaring that it was not the state's fault that the man had not educated himself for a professional career and that, therefore, the state could not be cheated out of its just dues.

The English abolished government by courbash. Under the rule of the pashas, the whip was applied freely to enforce the will of the aristocracy. Men accused of crime were lashed until they confessed or until they died. The courts did not administer justice, they only meted out punishment. It was visited upon innocent and guilty alike, unless the victim could produce a bribe of sufficient attractiveness to induce the judge to relent.

The universal system of bribery and official "bakhshish" has been well-nigh stamped out. In the old days it was positively dangerous not to offer a bribe to every official one came in contact with. Now it is almost as dangerous to offer the bribe. Corruption still exists in Egypt, but it is now the exception and not the rule.

System of World Value.

The English abolished the "corvee" in its old form. The corvee was that regulation which held the labor of the subject to be at the disposal of the sovereign. The government could call on any number of men, order them to go to any point in the country and work without pay as long as it pleased. The Suez Canal was started and most of it constructed by this kind of labor. The men were not paid were poorly fed and there was no protection whatever for their health. The pyramids were built by forced labor, and the corvee had been transmuting the blood of the Egyptian fellah into gold for the sovereign for sixty centuries when Lord Cromer abolished it.

The Khedives had confiscated and otherwise obtained possession of more than a million acres of the best farming lands in Egypt. Under English rule the greater portion of this vast estate has been applied to the extinction of the public debt and the land itself now has been sold in small parcels to the actual resident farmers.

England has given Egypt improved fertility and enlarged area by scientific irrigation. It has blessed Egypt with a long period of peace and tranquility, with relief from the fear of the "man higher up," with the practical abolition of slavery, with impartial administration of justice for rich and poor, with improved and cheapened transportation, with schools and with emancipation from corruption.

Not even England pretends that the British have a strictly legal right to rule in Egypt. But, despite academic conclusions it remains a fact that England was forced to come to Egypt by circumstances, and that England's withdrawal at any time would have meant anarchy in Egypt and danger to the peace of the world. More than that, even the Egyptians who are crying out for national independence will admit that both prince and peasant in Egypt have known a greater prosperity under enlightened British rule than ever before. And despite all contention that England must leave Egypt, there is every probability that England is in Egypt to stay.

JURY SECURED IN SECOND OF ORE SALTING CASES

J. W. Merrifield, another of the Cripple Creek ore-fraud cases charged with conspiracy in connection with the Golden Cycle ore fraud cases was placed on trial before Judge James Owen yesterday. Court adjourned at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, at which time a jury was secured, and evidence will be introduced this morning.

In order to complete the hearing of the ore fraud cases, District Judge James Owen yesterday continued the trial of Rube Prebble, charged with the murder of W. A. Neff, to June 29.

Bert Bray, colored, was bound over to the district court by Justice O. R. Dunnington yesterday, on a charge of grand larceny, and was committed to the county jail in default of bond in the sum of $500. The defendant is accused of stealing $61 from H. S. Foster, a white man, and admits taking $15 of the money. He was arrested in Denver.

Walter Neff, accused of breaking into the room of Mrs. Blanche Peltier at the St. Charles rooming house on South Tejon street, was bound over to the district court by Justice O. R. Dunnington yesterday on a charge of burglary and larceny. He was committed to the county jail in default of bond of $300.

Henry T. Williams filed suit in the district court yesterday against R. W. Groves et al., children of the late W. H. Groves, to restrain them from cutting timber and otherwise taking possession of a timber tract recently secured from the government in the name of their dead father. Williams claims to have paid all the expense of the filing, together with the improvements, and that the property belongs to him.

AUSPICIOUS OPENING OF SEATTLE'S EXPOSITION

Taft touched the golden telegraph instrument. Two wires were working through from the the exposition grounds at Seattle to the White House.

Practically the entire diplomatic corps was present, and after the ceremony, the President held an impromptu reception.

After the President had touched the key there was a wait of a few minutes, amid complete silence. Then came the ticking of the instrument to tell that the starting flash had done its work.

The President made a brief speech to those about him in which he said:

"We are here to go through a ceremony that symbolizes the close relationship in this country between the eastern seaboard and the western seaboard, and to express in this way the interest of the whole country in an exposition that affects Alaska, the northwest, Philippine islands, all parts of this country, in the development of which we are especially interested, and toward the future of which we look forward with every hope that there shall be a successful development.

"I have not the slightest doubt that with the home of the exposition in Seattle and with the spirit of that city as I know it to be, the exposition is certain to be a success and is altogether to show a development of all that country that we all may be proud of."

Japan Pleased.

TOKIO, June 2.—Government officials, the Japanese newspapers, and the public generally, are highly gratified over the splendid reception given Rear Admiral Ijichi and the Japanese training squadron at Tacoma, accounts of which have been published in the leading papers. The reception of the Japanese cadets and sailors in Tacoma and other cities on the Pacific coast is regarded in all circles as unimpeachable evidence of the sincerity of the friendship between Japan and America.

FLOODS IN SOUTH DAKOTA HINDER RAILROAD TRAFFIC

Heavy Rains Have Been Falling for Several Days Washes Out of Tracks.

RAPID CITY, S. D., June 1.—Railroads operating in this section are practically at a standstill by reason of floods due to heavy rains for several days past. Rain continues tonight and water in the rivers and streams is still rising. The Rapid river, which flows through the northern part of this city, is out of its banks, and threatening the residences in that section.

The track of the Omaha-Deadwood branch of the Northwestern railroad between Sturgis and Deadwood is washed out in many places and a number of bridges have been so damaged as to be unsafe.

Water covers the right of way of the Rapid City, Black Hills and Western railroad for miles west of here and many miles of Burlington track in the Black Hills district have been swept away by flood.

CONDITION OF COTTON CROPS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 1.—According to reports to the National Ginners association, made public today, the condition of the growing cotton crop on May 26 showed an average of 80.6 per cent, and a reduction in acreage as compared with the corresponding date of last year of 2.8. The condition of the Texas crop is given at 76 and the acreage at 104 per cent of last year's. Only one other state, Tennessee, shows an increased acreage, with figures of 102. The average condition for all the states is 80.6 and the average acreage as compared with last year 97.2.

SHUBERTS WILL USE DENVER AUDITORIUM NEXT SEASON

DENVER, June 1.—Contracts were signed yesterday in New York, whereby the Shuberts will take over the Denver auditorium for a season of 20 weeks, beginning November 1. The prices of admission, controlled by the city, will range from 25 cents to one dollar. The contracts give the city 30 per cent of the net proceeds. The city reserves the right to lease the auditorium for convention purposes, by giving 30 days' notice.

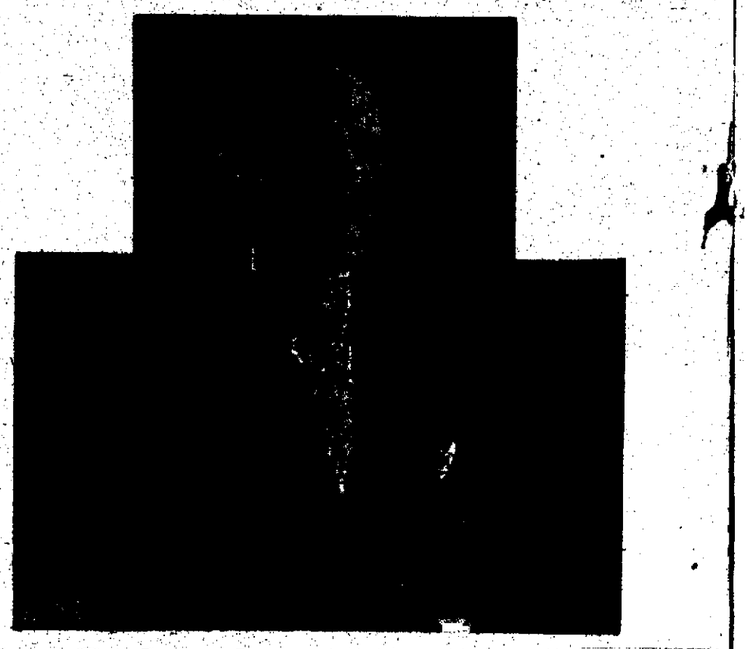

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 1.—June week, gala season of the year at the naval academy, opened today with the reception of the board of visitors.

SAYS HUSBAND LIKES ANOTHER COLORED WOMAN

"My husband likes her better'n me because she's a lightly colored black woman—that's why he insists on dawgin' with her," explained Mrs. "Lu" Hill, colored, when arraigned before Justice A. P. Toombs yesterday morning on a charge of threats to kill, preferred by Ora Frazier, another negress. The case was set for Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and the defendant was released on bond.

The complaint alleges that Mrs. Hill threatened to kill her because she danced with Hill last Saturday night.

WANT HUTCHISON AGAIN

Cutler Praises Work of Baseball Coach—Asks Him to Take Charge of 1910 Team

Coach Herve Hutchison, whose excellent work with the Cutler Academy baseball squad came near landing the pennant this spring for the red and white, has been asked by the Academy Athletic association to take charge of the team again next spring.

HERVE HUTCHISON,
Who Has Been Asked to Coach the 1910 Cutler Nine.

At a meeting of the members of the Cutler Athletic association yesterday noon, Hutchison was formally thanked for his services this year and congratulated on the excellent showing made. When the season opened Cutler's pennant-winning chances seemed very slight. The red and white players were defeated by the Terrors, 17 to 1. Hutchison's coaching then began to show itself, and the academy beat Central and Pla(?) each twice. In the game with the High School ... Saturday, Cutler showed unexpected strength, and lost on a fumble in the tenth by a score of 2 to 3. The players will elect a captain and manager for next year's team this afternoon.

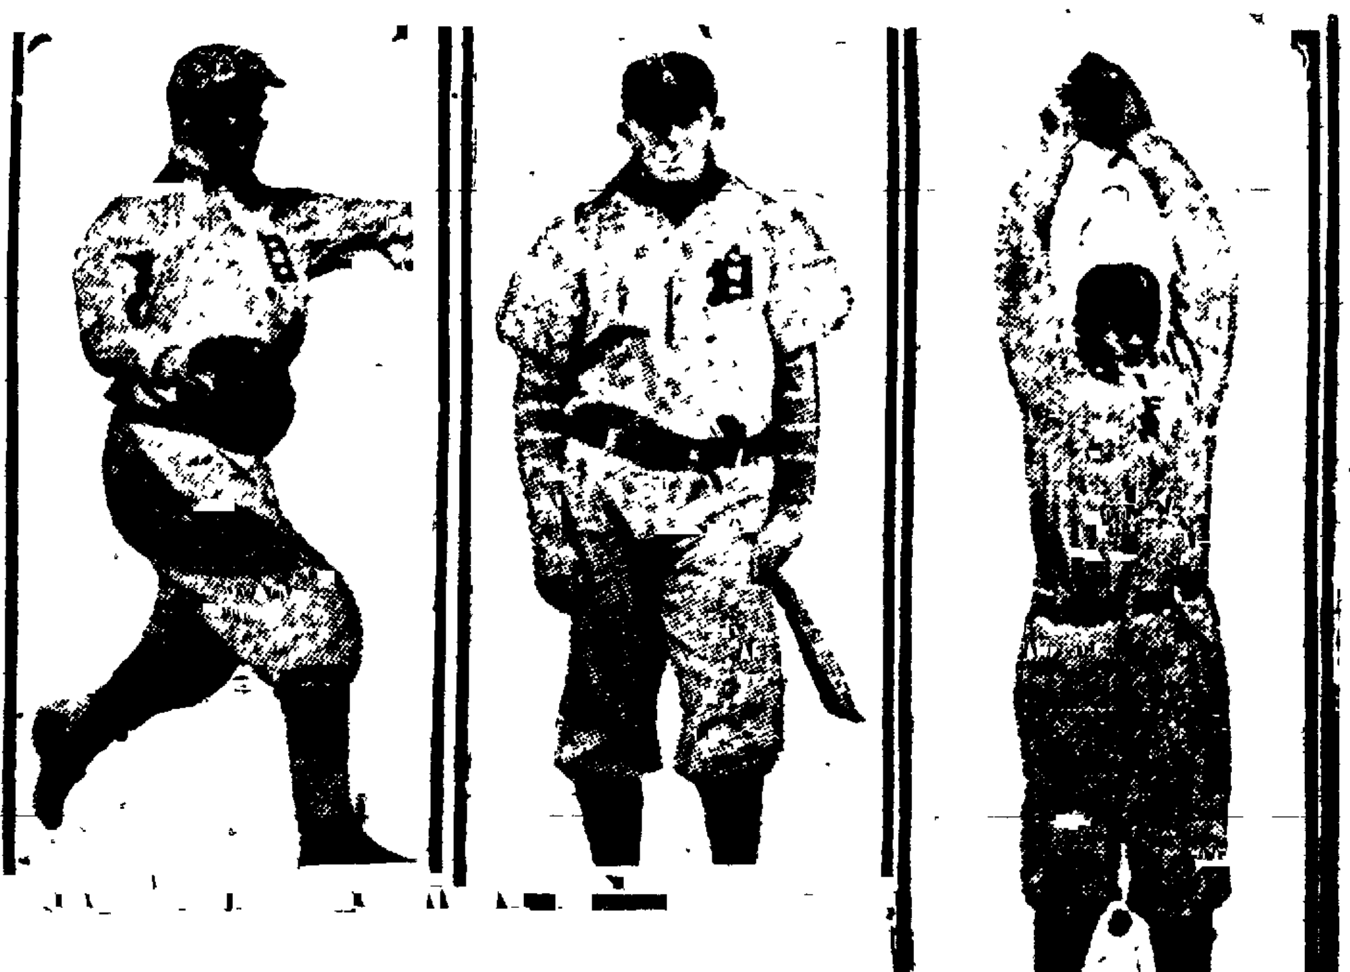

Hutchison was recognized as the best interscholastic third baseman in the state, and one of the heaviest hitters while a student at the academy. He has also had an enviable record as a member of several eastern academy teams.

FOUR LEAF CLOVER DID IT

Luck Charm Brought Victory to Captain Bancroft and His Terrors Manual Saturday

Cutler is still wondering ... were whipped by the T... s Saturday. The explanation is simple. Captain Bancroft whose heavy hitting was a feature of the game picked a four leaf clover the evening before on a trip to Bruin Inn and wore the lucky piece in his left shoe. Van Stone, the ... pitcher, has a habit of wearing a four leaf clover in his left shoe when pitching a game and when thus fortified against adverse fortune always spins out a victory.

Coach Bernard will be ... and will put the Terrors at work at once preparing for the bout with Manual of Denver at Washburn field next Saturday, when the state interscholastic baseball championship will be decided. The Terrors are going in the game to win, and if hard work counts for anything, they will make the visitors hard to catch ... team is working like a machine and Springs fans are confident that they will have another pennant-winning aggregation this year.

MORE STRINGENT RULES

Colorado Interscholastics Must Train Three Weeks Before State Meet Relay Abolished

BOULDER, June 1.—The Interscholastic Athletic association of Colorado has laid down a series of stringent rules which will govern the interscholastic track and field meet to be held in Boulder next May. The executive board of this association feels that the high school students have not trained enough in the past.

Next year the contestants will be required to train from three to five weeks before the date of the meet before qualifying for the events of the meet. On account of the supposed overexertion no credit will be allowed for the relay and schools taking fourth place in track and field events will be given one point. This serves to encourage the smaller schools, and those with the least chances of winning. For several years the larger schools, with unusual material, have taken everything to the complete disbarment of the lesser competitors.

In the resolutions adopted, it is particularly emphasized that the participants in the long-distance runs shall train five weeks prior to the occurrence of the events, and that such training shall be certified to by the principals of the respective high schools. By giving one point for fourth place, third place will be worth two, whereas formerly, it was counted as one point. First and second places will remain as formerly, namely, five and three, respectively. Other provisions of the resolutions provide that no records will be adopted as official until certified to by the officials of the meet. All entries must be in the hands of the manager one week before the events.

The officers elected at the meeting which adopted these resolutions are president, the captain of the Delta track team for 1910; secretary, captain of the Cheyenne track team for next year; representative on the executive board, captain of Littleton track team; representative on board of control, Vinton Coffin of Longmont and ... Fletcher of Pueblo No. 1.

The athletic situation at Colorado College has not changed. Graduate Manager Bleecker is in Minnesota on a visit and the new graduate manager, Frank L. Moorehead, has not taken office. Frank R. Castleman will retire as athletic director in June, but his successor has not been named.

HANDICAP ANNOUNCED FOR SPRINGS GOLFERS

That Colorado Springs golfers are to be reckoned with in the golf world is shown by the high handicap rating of members of the Town and Gown Golf club of this city. The handicap list of the Western Golf association, of which the Town and Gown club is a member, has just been announced. Following is the handicap rating for the Town and Gown club:

W. K. Jewett, 4; H. B. Davis, Jr., 5; Percy Hagerman 8; J. E. McIntyre, 9; T. W. Gar... 9. The rating is based on a course of 6,219 yards, with Bogey as 82.

MADISON, Wis., June 1—The University of Wisconsin baseball team today received an invitation to play a series of 12 games with Keio university in Tokio, Japan. It is believed that the faculty will consent.

SPORTING NOTES

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 1.—Jim Flynn of Pueblo was clearly outpointed in a 10-round fight here tonight by Montana Jack Sullivan. No decision was given in the ring, but the public gave the decision to Sullivan. The fighting was forced by Flynn, but Sullivan outboxed him, though he never had him in danger.

BANTAMWEIGHT CHAMPION JOHNNY COULON AND VETERAN LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHT JOE CHOYNSKI.

(By Special Correspondent.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 1.—Out at Coffroth's club at Colma everything is in readiness for the Coulon-Monte Attell fight on June 12. Joe Coulon at present holds the bantamweight championship, but has been suffering from a strain in his side for some time. Fans who have been following the boys predict a close, hard fight.

The lads will scale in at 110 at 6 o'clock. The picture was taken at the training quarters in Chicago just before Coulon left for the coast and shows his diminutive size as compared with even the light heavyweight Joe Choynski, who has been taking much interest in the bantamweight champion.

DECISION FAVORS BOOKIES

N. Y. Court Decides Dispensing of Advance Racing Dope Is No Violation of Law

ALBANY, N. Y., June 1.—The court of appeals today handed down a decision which in effect holds that the dispensing of advance racing information on the Brighton Beach track last July was not a violation of the antirace-track gambling laws. The court unanimously affirmed the decision of the lower court sustaining the demurrer interposed by William Engeman, Christopher Fitzgerald, president of the Brighton Beach Racing association, and John G. Kavanaugh, who it was ... were responsible for the issuance of the advance sheets. They were indicted as "common gamblers," but demurred on the ground that the acts complained of do not constitute a crime. The question before the court was whether the advance information sheet is a device and apparatus for gambling within the terms of the penal code.

Bookies Like Decision

NEW YORK, June 1.—Bookmakers and others interested in racing consider the decision of the court of appeals today ...tested game of the season. Disability to as making another loophole in the Hart-Agnew antibetting law. The sheets in question contain the entries, scratches, names of jockeys, overweights and other information necessary to bookmakers and betters in advance of a race. The ruling allows John G. Kavanaugh, official purveyor of advance information at the jockey club tracks to distribute the sheets unmolested as before the passage of the antibetting bill.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Formal articles of agreement for a fight in which Al Kaufman of California will endeavor to wrest the world's championship honors from Jack Johnson, negro pugilist, were signed today. The time and place of the bout remain to be decided upon, but it likely will be next September. Johnson agrees to box Kaufman 45 rounds or go to a finish in Nevada or any place where a finish contest is allowed. He specifies and insists that if the fight takes place in California he will not box more than 20 rounds. They agree to divide the receipts on a basis of 65 per cent to the winner and 35 per cent to the loser.

SPALDING'S OFFICIAL GOLF GUIDE OUT

Spalding's Official Guide for 1909, which has been edited by Tom Bendelow of Chicago, well known throughout the golfing world, has just been published in the Spalding Athletic Library series. It is the largest issue of the Golf Guide, that has ever been printed, containing ... pages of everything in relation to the game in the United States that is of interest in the way of records, lists of clubs, handicap lists, reviews and a general resume of the sport in America, including an interview with John D. Rockefeller on golf. The illustrations are numerous and interesting, and comprise portraits of all the leading players of the country amateur and professional. One of the pictures that will excite interest shows John D. Rockefeller in company with President Thompson of the Western Golf association and ex-President ... of the same organization, and on the succeeding page shows Judge Landis, who fined the Standard Oil $29,000,000, in company with the ... gentlemen.

The newly-revised rules are given in full, together with a glossary of technical terms, etiquette of golf, how to lay out a golf course, and other valuable information.

SAYS THE CUBS CAN WIN WITHOUT KLING

CINCINNATI, O., June 1.—President Charles Murphy of the Cubs is not in the least concerned over the absence of Johnny Kling, and declares he is firmly convinced that in Pat Moran he has uncovered the premier backstop of the National, or American, or any other league.

"The only reason why Moran should not have been valuable to the Chicago club," said Murphy, "was because he did not have an opportunity. Since he has been working regularly he has been giving demonstrations of backstopping such as no other catcher in the country can surpass. He has been batting well, especially lining out hits just when they are needed most."

CHICAGO, June 1.—Frank Gotch, world's wrestling champion, will be married to Miss Gladys L. Warner of this city early in the ..., according to an announcement made today by friends of Miss Warner.

THE SEATTLE EXPOSITION.

WHETHER or not the managers of the Seattle Exposition succeed in making a success of their show, they have already achieved one triumph, that is, they have opened it complete on the day first appointed. This is an extraordinary thing. The Chicago fair, which was planned to commemorate the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America, had to be postponed for one year because it could not be got ready in time, and even when it opened in May, 1893, many of the buildings and exhibits were incomplete.

The same thing was done by the promoters of the St. Louis exposition. It was called the Louisiana Purchase Centennial, but it was really held 101 years after the event it commemorated. In no case, we believe, have the managers of an exposition been able to have it completed on the opening day, even when it was opened at the appointed time. The Jamestown exposition, which was the last one before the Seattle show, was never actually finished, and on the opening day and for weeks thereafter the grounds were covered with piles of lumber and other building material.

THE PACIFIC NORTHWEST. The Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, which is the rather clumsy title of this fair, is designed primarily to advertise the Pacific Northwest and exploit its resources. Expositions are pretty much alike, and people who have seen those held in other cities in recent years, especially the Portland show, probably will find little that is new in the Seattle fair. But this does not mean that the trip will not be worth while; indeed, there is no section of the country that better repays a visit than the Pacific Northwest. Nine out of every ten people living east of The Rockies who visit the fair will do so more to see the country than because of the attractions of the exposition itself.

It is a region rich in mineral and agricultural wealth, and is fast becoming the real center of the American lumber industry. The development of Oriental commerce which followed the acquisition of the Philippines, and the increase in Alaskan trade which came after the opening of the Klondike and Cape Nome gold regions, have made great commercial cities of Portland and Seattle. There are competent observers who believe that either or both of those cities will eventually distance San Francisco in the volume of their foreign commerce—not an unreasonable prediction when we remember that they are considerably nearer than San Francisco to the principal Oriental ports, and that the country immediately tributary to them is capable of almost unlimited development.

FORESTRY AND THE RAILROADS.

THE first great commercial interest to be affected seriously by the growing scarcity of timber was the railroads. Considered as a whole they probably use more timber than any other one interest, and the constant necessity of renewing ties, poles and wooden bridges runs the cost up to a tremendous figure. The tie problem is especially vexatious, for few varieties of wood are suitable for making ties, and the average life of even the best grade those made of white oak—is short. "Pickling" the ties, or treating them with creosote, prolongs their life, but this is expensive. In the last ten years white oak and other woods best adapted to this purpose have become so scarce that the cost of ties made from them is almost prohibitive, and now even the inferior woods have become so costly that the railroads are looking anxiously, but in vain, for a substitute. Ties made of steel and of steel and concrete have been tried, but without satisfaction, the principal objection being the lack of resiliency. The conclusion seems inevitable that regardless of cost wood is the only available material, and the problem is how to insure a supply sufficient for the present and future as cheaply as possible.

A few years ago the Pennsylvania Railroad did the only sensible thing by beginning a systematic program of tree planting. It owned a number of large tracts of land close to its right of way, unsuitable for agriculture but well adapted to tree culture, and the company engaged expert foresters to plant trees. Quick growth varieties suitable for making ties were selected, and now the Pennsylvania has some four or five million young trees planted. It will be at least twenty years before they are big enough to cut, and meanwhile the company will have to get its ties where it can and pay the market prices, but eventually it will have solved the problem.

Several other railroads have followed the example of the Pennsylvania, and it is certain that before many years the cultivation of "tree farms" will be a recognized part of the railroad business. But this does not settle the question of present supply, and every year the price of ties, poles and bridge timbers climbs higher.

GETTING BETTER RESULTS. When it is considered that four-fifths of the standing timber in the country is privately owned while only one-fifth is in public forests owned by the state and national governments it is apparent that the problem of forest conservation can be solved only by co-operation. The efforts of the United States Forest service will accomplish little unless they are supported by the many individuals and corporations interested in the timber industry. To attain this object the Forest Service is working with the railroads to promote tree planting, and a few days ago Forester Pinchot addressed a letter to the presidents of the leading railroads suggesting better methods. Some of his recommendations are:

The use of chemically treated ties wherever possible.

The use of so-called inferior woods, as for example, black gum and loblolly pine for ties, which will reduce the drain on white oak and is entirely practicable if the ties are treated.

The purchase and management of land bearing mature timber which can be used immediately, and of second-growth timber which will meet the needs of the future. Such lands if properly managed will insure a perpetual supply of ties and lumber at the cost of production.

The planting of trees upon nonagricultural land owned by the company which does not now contain sufficient young growth to produce a timber crop.

Co-operation with other roads in the adoption of standard specifications for ties and timber and for the treatment of them. Co-operation with timber land owners and the States in fire prevention, and in bringing about conditions which will make the practice of forestry profitable.

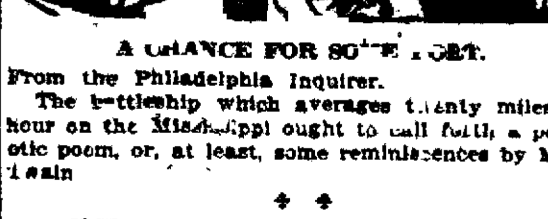

The adoption of these suggestions would help materially to tide over the period of timber scarcity between now and the time when the railroad companies' trees mature.

THE COST OF BAD ROADS.

IN a speech on the good roads bill which was before the Sixtieth session of Congress, Senator Bankhead, of Alabama, gave some interesting statistics showing the cost to the farmers of bad roads.

In one recent year the weight of the corn crop or the part of it which was marketed—was 19,000,000 tons. This made 14,156,000 wagon loads, and the average haul to railroad or market was 7.4 miles. Mr. Bankhead declared that the estimated cost of hauling was $26,830,698, or 19 cents per ton mile, and that if the roads had been good it would have been only 10 cents a saving to the farmers of $12,709,000 on one item.

Bad roads are indefensible, if for no other reason than their excessive cost. Simply as a matter of economy it is far better to build good highways, even when the initial cost is great.

PENN WOULD HAVE HAD IT SO.

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Every now and then an American tourist breaks into print with a complaint of the "neglected" grave of William Penn. The latest of these, a traveler from California, who has returned from a pilgrimage to the modest burial ground where the founder of Pennsylvania was laid, records that he found it, indeed, "just the place that the simple-hearted Quaker might have chosen for his last sleep;" but "his grave is all but unmarked," only "a small stone" distinguishing his grave from others. In many Quaker burial grounds the graves are not even marked by small stones, but certainly an imposing monument is the last thing we should expect to find. Our American complains even that the grass and flowers are allowed to grow above the quiet grave. He wants something done about it. We hope that nothing will be done, but that Penn's body may be left to rest in peace beneath the English daisies. His monument is here.

SPRING CLEANING.

From the Springfield Republican.

The city housecleaning crusade which was inspired by the women of Washington, produced results that are worth having. It appears that 3,705 vacant lots have been cleaned, 500 private alleys put in order and 10,000 cellars woodsheds and back yards made tidy since the work was inaugurated last month. It is proposed to make the movement something more than a spurt, and effort will be made to preserve the improved conditions throughout the summer. The work of spring cleaning for municipalities has spread widely throughout the country, having first become established in the west, and now many eastern cities and towns promote community efforts of this sort. It is not only well to have what are public eyesores done away in this fashion, but the cleaning-up policy has its bearing upon public health as well. It is good to see a homely first duty of this kind being attacked in the organized way which makes such betterment most effective.

POT CALLS KETTLE BLACK

From the New York Evening Journal.

A particularly sooty pot called the kettle black when Mr. Tillman rebuked the Senate for talking too much. Rebuking each other is the favorite occupation now among a body of men who supposedly acknowledge no other obligations but those of courtesy. We can see why Mr. Root should protest against senatorial oratory. He is essentially a man of few words and remarkable business sense and when there's work to be done he cannot see why ninety good men can't get together and do it quietly. But Mr. Tillman is a man of very many words who has uttered much transcendent nonsense in season and out of season. It is strange to have him develop rhetorophobia just at the time when talk and a good deal of talk is what the country needs. For we must recognize that if language as manipulated by the Aldrichs and the Smoots, is chiefly designed to conceal thought language is still the best way we have of conveying thought when we really have the wish to. Mr. ... talk the country might well dispense with Senator Gore's and Senator Dolliver's it could not readily spare. Mr. Root must perceive that here is a business of something more than the readjustment of schedules. The minds and the consciences of a great number of people at large have to be readjusted. That educational work is now being helped along by a handful of talking senators.

TREND OF IMMIGRATION

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Although the immigration statistics of the present fiscal year will still reflect the check imposed upon the influx of foreigners to the United States by the business depression the figures already indicate a turn of the tide. In April no less than 118,754 immigrant aliens were admitted to the country as compared with only ... recorded for the corresponding month in 1908. There has been, moreover, a marked reduction in the number of aliens departing from the country, this movement being a significant one not always given its due weight in the consideration of the immigration question. In six out of the twelve months of the last fiscal year more aliens departed than arrived, the net increase in population from immigration being only 209,868 in spite of the aggregate of 782,870 incoming alien immigrants. This year, on the other hand, a net increase has been shown continuously since last September, and the volume of the increase has been steadily enlarged.

These figures must be viewed with satisfaction whatever misgivings may be felt because of the continued predominance of immigration from the south of Italy and the Russian empire, for the addition to the labor resources of the country is a very real and tangible national asset. The turn of the tide may also be interpreted as a certain sign of growing confidence in the stability of the industrial conditions which are tempting labor to the United States.

The doctor is sure that my health is poor, he says that I waste away; so bring me a can of the shredded bran, and a bale of the toasted hay. O feed me on rice and denatured ice, HEALTH FOOD. and the oats that the horses chew, and a peck of slaw and a load of straw and a turnip and squash or two. The doctor cries that it won't be wise to eat of the things I like, if I make a break at a sirloin steak my stomach is sure to strike; I dare not reach for the luscious peach, or stab at the lemon pie. If I make a pass at the stew, alas! I'm sure to curl up and die. If a thing looks good, it must be eschewed, if bad, I may eat it down; so bring me a jar of the rich pine tar from the Health Food works up town, and bring me a bag of your basic slag, and a sack of your bolted prunes, and a bowl of slop from the doctor's shop, and ladle it with spoons! I will have to feed on the jimson weed, and the grass that the cows may leave, for the doctor's sure that my health is poor, and I know that he'd not deceive.

The Daily Chit-Chat

Modern life is too complex. We want too much. Almost all the world admits and deplores these facts.

But rare indeed is the man or woman who tries to better matters by wanting less.

Happiness does not consist merely in many possessions. So far as it comes from material things at all, happiness consist in an even balance between possessions to enjoy and leisure in which to enjoy them.

I know a girl who could have a salary of $25 a week if she would take a position that would mean constant slaving. In the position that she now occupies she frequently has free afternoons and some times a whole day to herself. Her present salary is only $15, but she says she would rather have the leisure to enjoy that smaller sum than have the larger sum and no opportunity to enjoy it.

The girl with plenty of money and no leisure is fully as badly if not worse off than her sister with plenty of leisure and no money.

That's why the girl who has lived at home and had no money to enjoy herself with, finds she has but jumped from the frying pan into the fire when she goes to work and earns the money for pleasures, but has no time to enjoy them.

My next door neighbor shows the finest common sense in the management of her home affairs as the girl who of her own choice accepted the smaller salary. She is skillful with her needle. Her children's clothes and her own might be the most beautiful, and elaborate in the neighborhood. "I started in to make them so," she said, "and then I realized that it meant I would have to give up every moment of my spare time to it. So I made a plan which I have followed ever since. I buy pretty stuffs and make the garments up on as good lines as possible, but I almost completely omit trimmings. Occasionally I use a little nice lace or hamburg, but never any elaborate scheme of trimming that would take much time. The money I save that way goes toward getting the best of material.

"As a result, I have a chance to enjoy life, and though we are never elaborately dressed almost everyone thinks we have pretty clothes."

Which latter statement I can heartily corroborate.

In another family where there is no maid, a wise mother has lightened her labors by this plan. The only dessert ever put upon her table for either dinner or supper is fruit. It is fully as delicious as anything else, no more expensive, and far healthier.

And best of all—

"Not having any desserts to plan or prepare gives me at least an hour a day more time for myself," she says.

Half the things we think we really must have we desire only because the rest of the world has them.

Most of us measure our wants by a false rule, for we gauge them by other people's wants instead of by the rightful rule of our own needs.

To the man and woman who cast this false rule aside and strive for the things that they truly in their own hearts need, and in that seeking, try to enjoy them to these people happiness—that queer, beautiful, fragile thing we're all so earnestly seeking is most like to come.

What the Press Agents Say

NAT GOODWIN SUCCESS TONIGHT

"A Gilded Fool," Nat Goodwin's greatest comedy success which had a run of several months in New York, London and Chicago, followed by a long tour of England and of this country, will be seen at the Opera House for the first time in several years when Theodore Lorch and his associate players present the comedy this evening. "A Gilded Fool" is one of those bright, sparkling affairs of high society life which are full of laughable situations and scenes. Unlike so many modern comedies, there is nothing coarse or vulgar in "A Gilded Fool," and the fun is fast and furious from the beginning until the end.

Theodore Lorch, who made a sensational success here on various different visits with his performance of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," which by the way he offers for one performance only on Friday evening, will present a special revival of "Trilby," the great drama of artists' life which made Wilton Lackaye famous, at the Opera House matinee and night. This piece offers Lorch a role which is even more intense than his Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" and no one can really afford to miss it. This play will open his summer engagement in Denver next week, where he follows Mrs. Fiske and "The Blue Mouse" at the Curtis theater.

Strongheart," the college Indian play will be seen for the first time in three years Saturday matinee and night. This play which Robert Edeson first gave here a few seasons ago, is a most interesting comedy and cannot fail to please by its unusual plot and unique developments. The prices for all of Lorch performances, which are really ridiculously low considering the quality of the Lorch productions and performances are 25c, 35c, 50c and 75c for nights and 10 cents for children and 25 cents for adults for matinees.

MISS MARIE DORO.

The Young Frohman Star Who Comes to the Opera House Monday in "The Morals of Marcus," Supported by Edwin Arden and Marie Wainwright.

MARIE DORO

Miss Marie Doro comes to the Opera House on Monday in W. J. Locke's four act comedy "The Morals of Marcus," in which she made a distinct hit in New York city and elsewhere when Charles Frohman first promoted her three years ago to the honors of stardom. She comes to us with a splendid company including such well known artists as Marie Wainwright, Edwin Arden, Marie Abbott, William Postance, Mart Taylor, Anne Meredith, Alice Coburn Fry and other local favorites.

Of the play itself it is said that it departs from the conventional stage story in that it introduces characters as interesting as they are original, and Miss Doro has a role that calls for the greatest possible test of artistic ability and personal charm. Although the character is a dainty, elfin, mischievous, ingenuous, slip of a girl, she develops rapidly as the story progresses into a woman with profoundest depths of feeling, and unconquerable love, and the interpretation requires versatility and intelligence to a marked degree. Miss Doro's immediate success in the role stamped her at once as a woman of remarkable attainment and established her firmly as an American star of the highest rank.

In "The Morals of Marcus," Miss Doro is Carlotta to the life in appearance, and she gives a vivid impersonation of the girl's character as outlined by the author. All the pretty irresponsibilities, childish playfulness, and kittenish coquetry of Carlotta are faithfully rendered and made delightful, while in the scene of her repentant homecoming she is pathetic and tear compelling. Seats Friday.

OVERHEARD IN THE POPULAR MAJESTIC THEATER FOYER

Wife—"Do you know George, that I have found out something tonight that I never knew before."

Husband—"What is it?"

Wife—"I have discovered that I really do enjoy the best music. You know that I have always thought I did not understand it. Well, after hearing that charming woman, Elizabeth Spencer, sing, I know I do like it. Isn't she just lovely? And, oh, such a sweet voice and magnetic manner. You'll take me again, won't you?"

Husband—"You bet. I want to hear her again myself. I guess that will be a little surprise to you, too. You always said I couldn't understand anything but 'rag.'"

First Police Officer—That Brindamour is certainly a wonder. I have examined his steel cage, and all his handcuffs, and they are as solid as any in the world. He certainly has me guessing. And I have always prided myself on being able to keep any man in jail after I once had him there."

Second Police Officer—"If we had many Brindamour's to deal with we would have to put a burglar alarm on every cell in our jail, and then keep watch to see that they were not tampered with. Yes, he is a wonder. He is the greatest I ever saw or heard of. If all the people in town knew as well as we do how really wonderful is his breaking out of that cage, it would keep our whole force busy getting them into this theater this week without hurting themselves by crowding."

Old Grouch—"Well, Bill, I had a mighty good laugh tonight at that fellow Joe Watson, and I feel better. You know, he is just like a New York east side Hebrew in every way. And he's funny enough to make a stone man laugh. Good laugh helps a whole lot, eh?"

Old Hearty Bill—"Told you so, didn't I? Yes, I laughed like mischief at Wilson. But you know how I used to like the old-time minstrel singers and performers. Well, Manuel Romain and his company 'caught me.' Beautiful act—costumes, singing, dancing—everything. By the way, do you know that Romain makes the finest records of tenor solos for the Edison phonograph? Yes this same man. His voice is heard in every city in the world. Great tenor, isn't he?"

Another Regular Patron—"One of the best I ever saw—top to bottom."

FAIRYLAND

Still pleasing. The popular little playhouse is pleasing the public more than ever, and if you want to see a good show, don't overlook Fairyland this week, as the management is getting better acts as well as better pictures at all times.

Armin & Co. presenting the "Haunted House," are causing numerous laughs and are making a decided hit. Mr. O. S. Fultz, the cornet soloist late of Sousa's famous band, is an artist in his line and is receiving numerous encores. He is also presenting some beautiful scenic effects.

Our singer is singing that beautifully illustrated song "That's the Tune They Played in Dixie Land."

The pictures are excellent. The management has secured another feature picture, The Hunter's Grief. This is Pathe's latest feature and is sure to please. Other good ones are Zouzou the Lucky Dog and The Thanksgiving Turkey.

This is amateur night at Fairyland so don't miss it. Children admitted to any performance 5 cents, general admission 10 cents, a few reserved seats 20 cents.

Program changed Monday and Thursday completely.

CHANGE OF PICTURES AT THE CRYSTAL TODAY

A Friend ... the Lovers ... A woodman and his wife are seen working about their hut, their little daughter of about 12 years helping. The mother gives the child a couple of aprons and tells her to wash them in a stream near by. The child does as she is bidden and, after finishing, notices flowers growing near by. She starts picking them and wanders off further and further from home. Two Indians are seen approaching in a canoe further down the stream. They finally reach the spot where the little child stands, spring out and bear her off down the stream. They reach camp with their captive where the little girl finds a friend in a young Indian girl about her own age. Meanwhile at home the child is missed and the father starts out in the direction of the stream. On the banks he finds evidences of a struggle, loads his gun and paddles down the river. At the camp, the Indians retire and the little Indian girl tells the captive in pantomime that she will help her to escape. Watching their chance the little girls creep from the teepee and walk toward the stream. They presently spy the woodman and the child is soon restored to her parents. A noise is heard and the Indians rush upon and attack the woodman. Escape seems hopeless when the wife appears, musket in hand, and puts the Indians to flight.

SPRINGS MEN OPEN NEW PENROSE LINE

ROAD GIVES TRANSPORTATION TO FERTILE DISTRICT.

Large Dam for Reservoir Nearing Completion—Road Will Be Extended in Future

The final work was done yesterday on a project which means much to Colorado when the Beaver, Penrose and Northern railroad was put into operation and the Beaver Park district with its infant town Penrose was thereby given transportation facilities which place it on the industrial map of Colorado. The new road adds another to the long list of progressive enterprises in this state financed by Colorado Springs men.

The opening of the new road was without formality. Yesterday morning C. M. MacNeill, its president, J. Dawson Hawkins, vice president, and Clarence C. Hamlin, accompanied by a local newspaper representative, made the trip from this city to Penrose. At Beaver, where connection is made with the new road, the party was greeted by J. Q. MacDonald, vice president and general manager of the Beaver Land and Irrigation company, which built the road, J. J. Cogan, formerly assistant manager of the Short line, now general superintendent and auditor of the Beaver, Penrose and Northern, and others. Jesse H. Waters, general manager of the Short line and also of the Beaver, Penrose and Northern, Spencer Penrose, one of its principal owners, and F. C. Matthews, general traffic manager of the Short line, made the trip from this city in automobiles.

At Penrose the party was entertained with a fine luncheon as guests of the railroad officials. W. A. Matlock, general sales agent of the Beaver Land and Irrigation company, had charge of the arrangements.

Visit to Big Dam.

Half a dozen automobiles carried the party up Beaver creek canon to the big dam, which is being constructed to conserve the waters of the stream in order to insure a supply during dry seasons. Most of the Springs visitors returned.

The Beaver, Penrose and Northern is a broad gauge line only a trifle over six miles in length and connects the new town of Penrose with Beaver station on the Rio Grande. It was built by the Beaver Land and Irrigation company for the benefit of the settlers on its lands, affording them direct transportation connections with outside points and permitting through shipment of produce from all parts of the district. It has been built since April 1 at a cost of $80,000 and with the equipment represents an investment of about $100,000. The rolling stock at present consists of one engine and combined passenger and baggage coach and several freight cars, but this will be increased as fast as traffic demands.

The officials of the road contemplate its extension later to Oro Junta, seven miles beyond Penrose, where connection will be made with the Florence and Cripple Creek road. It is also the intention in the near future, to equip the line with gasoline motors to haul the passenger trains. The new time schedule, effective yesterday, calls for three trains over the line each way daily. E. T. Schlacks, a brother of Vice President C. H. Schlacks of the Rio Grande, is trainmaster and conductor, and George Whitlock, formerly of the Short line, is engineer.

Travels Good Territory.

The territory which the new line traverses has a population of over 1,000 people, and will furnish an outlet next fall for the products from 3,000 acres of land now under irrigation. Penrose, the infant town which dates its real birth from the opening of the road, has sprung into existence within a few months and already has two prosperous stores, a restaurant, barber shop, three lumber yards, a depot and a Presbyterian church which was dedicated last Sunday. New buildings are now going up, including an office for the railroad, and several substantial business blocks.

Work on the dam is advancing rapidly and cement laterals which distribute water throughout the 16,000 acres of irrigable land are being laid at the rate of 2,000 feet a day. It is anticipated that with the acreage now under cultivation, heavy shipments will be made this fall, and the prediction of Thurston White, the company's horticulturist, is that in 10 years 10,000 cars of produce will be hauled annually over the Beaver, Penrose and Northern railway.

DOCTOR-JACK POT TO PAY REGULAR DIVIDEND

Company Pays Half Cent per Share and Declares Similar Dividend Quarterly.

Accompanying its recently-declared dividend of ½ cent per share, the Doctor-Jack Pot Mining company, yesterday morning issued circular letters to stockholders, announcing that it is the purpose of the directors to maintain a regular quarterly dividend at the same rate, rather than to make a larger disbursement at irregular intervals. This places the company again on a regular dividend-paying basis, after many years' cessation, and is another indication of the return of the Cripple Creek district to its former prosperity.

The report states that 12 sets of lessees are actively at work on the property, and that this number will probably be increased as soon as the weather settles and permits more prospecting. A supplemental report for the last three months, showing a net gain of $8,485.60, is given in the circular. In addition, two promising strikes within the last week on the Ingham property, owned by the company, are announced.

Regarding the use of the old Jack Pot shaft, concerning which much interest is manifested by mining men, the report has the following to say:

"The manager of your company has caused the "Jack Pot" or "Davenport" shaft to be overhauled and retimbered in places, so that it can be used in the future, instead of the old leasing company's shaft, which was located on the adjoining property. The "Jack Pot" shaft is now in such condition that it can be equipped with a cage or skip, and heavier hoisting machinery, should the demands of the lessees require it, by having larger quantities of ore to hoist. It is also the intention of the management to install an electrically driven air compressor, for the use of the lessees. The company will receive some revenue from the operating of this, as the lessees will pay a rental for each machine drill used. At present, they either have to do the work by hand, or purchase air from someone furnishing an [illegible] for quality."

WOMAN MADE THREATS

So Says W. C. Jones, Who Charges Laura McCarthy of Manitou with Drawing Gun in a Dispute.

On the ground that Laura McCarthy, a Manitou woman, confronted him with a revolver and made threats on his life, W. C. Jones, the well-known restaurant man of this city, yesterday filed an information, charging her with the offense, in the court of Justice A. P. Toombs. The woman was brought to court and released on bond for her appearance next Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. The trouble is said to have arisen from a misunderstanding concerning a lease on a Manitou restaurant, which Jones claims to hold for the coming season, and to which the woman also lays claim.

HOTEL MEN WILL PICNIC AT MANITOU

MANY MEMBERS OF ASSOCIATION TO VISIT DISTRICT.

Several Hundred Will Gather From This State, Utah, Wyoming and New Mexico

Manitou will this year be the scene of the midsummer meeting and merrymaking of the members of the Rocky Mountain Hotel Men's association who with their wives and families will be tendered the hospitality of the resort on [illegible] June 25. Preparations are being made for the entertainment of several hundred people from Colorado, Utah, Wyoming and New Mexico.

The early part of the day is to be spent in an outing in the mountains along the line of the C. & S. road. The plans comprise a barbecue and an old-fashioned picnic party. In the evening the visitors are to be tendered a banquet at the Navajo hotel by the proprietor, C. A. Pollen, and a grand ball to be given at the Mansions by E. S. Boswell will close the festivities. Arrangements may be made for a special train or special cars for the hotel men over one of the railroads.

The midsummer meeting last year was held in South Cheyenne canon, the visitors being the guests of the hotel men of Colorado Springs. The year preceding the meeting was held at Manitou.

Colorado Springs men who are officers of the Rocky Mountain Hotel Men's association are W. S. Dunning, Antlers hotel, second vice president; J. A. Himebaugh, Spaulding house, treasurer; H. H. Stevens, Alta Vista hotel, chairman of executive committee.

TO REMODEL MANSIONS HOTEL AT COST OF $5,000

Manager E. S. Boswell Will Install Buffet and Cafe Predicts a Successful Season.

One of the finest buffets in the state is being installed at a cost of more than $5,000 in the Mansions hotel at Manitou, and is to be opened shortly before the hotel begins its season on Tuesday, June 22. A license to serve liquors was granted the management by the town board of Manitou at its meeting last night.

The spacious hall occupying the ground floor of the hotel, beneath the main floor, is being remodeled and redecorated. The new furnishings are of the old mission style. A first-class cafe is to be conducted in connection with the buffet and the management is planning to make this new feature one of the most attractive that has ever been offered to tourists.

The Mansions will open under the management of E. S. Boswell, who for the last six years has conducted this high-class resort hotel. Mr. Boswell will also conduct a summer hotel at Westcliffe, a fishing resort in Custer county.

"This season promises to be the greatest in the history of the Pikes Peak region," said Mr. Boswell yesterday. "The Mansions has an unusually large number of bookings for the season, and it is noticeable that many eastern people are coming to Manitou this season for the first time. In the past, our patronage has been largely from the south and middle west, but it now appears that eastern tourists are becoming cognizant of the superior attractions of a summer in the Rocky Mountains. This, I believe, has been brought about by a systematic campaign of advertising inaugurated by the hotels and the railroads."

INDUSTRIALISM OF AGE OBSCURES MODERN ART

The Practical Commercialism of Times, Says G. Lowes Dickinson, Hampers Progress Toward Ideal.

"Modern art is obscured by industrialism."

This was the keynote of a discourse last night on "Democracy and Art," by G. Lowes Dickinson before a large audience at Perkins hall, under auspices of the Women's Education society of Colorado College.

Mr. Dickinson declares that art will never recover its full and clear expression of life, nor will it progress toward the ideal, until a wider democracy is established through social equality. Industrialism, he says, is doing all it can to destroy beauty and nothing to create it, affecting the environment in which we live, and affecting society. Man fails to receive the inspiration from the machine that he experiences when his hands have created a work of beauty.

Art springs from the emotions, transcending the intellectual, and is based upon the highest type of culture, said Mr. Dickinson. The machine age or the era of industrialism, he averred, is reflected in modern art production in vivid contrast with the art of the Greeks.

He elucidated this point by recalling the folk songs inspired by pastoral pursuits in the past, and observed that no music has been inspired by machines. However, he says that in the time to come there may be a poetry of science, but that it will be born of a wider democracy.

Man today, says Mr. Dickinson, is building the foundation for the future man, who will approach nearer the ideals of the race, if not attain perfection. Poetry, he said, is the voice of the cosmic spirit, which underlies the material concrete world.

Handsome is as handsome ... in the mirror.

is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are almost exactly like the churning of butter. Is it not apparent then that if this stomach-churn is foul it makes foul all which is put into it?

The evil of a foul stomach is not alone the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour and foul stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every tainting or corrupting element. In this way it cures blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings, sores or open eating ulcers and all humors or diseases arising from bad blood.

If you have bitter, nasty foul taste in your mouth, coated tongue, foul breath, are weak and easily tired, feel depressed and despondent, have frequent headaches, dizzy attacks, gnawing or distress in stomach, constipated or irregular bowels, sour or bitter risings after eating and poor appetite, these symptoms, or any considerable number of them, indicate that you are suffering from biliousness, torpid or lazy liver with the usual accompanying indigestion or dyspepsia and their attendant derangements.

The best agents known to medical science for the cure of the above symptoms and conditions, as attested by the writings of leading teachers and practitioners of all the several schools of medical practice, have been skillfully and harmoniously combined in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That this is absolutely true will be readily proven to your satisfaction if you will but mail a postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a free copy of his booklet of extracts from the standard medical authorities giving the names of all the ingredients entering into his world-famed medicines and showing what the most eminent medical men of the age say of them.

THE WORLD of BOOKS

"POLLY WINFORD"

"Polly Winford," by Eyre Hussey. Longmans, Green & Co., publishers, New York. Price $1.50.

Nowhere but in England could a novel of 350 pages be written in which so little happens as in "Polly Winford," by Eyre Hussey. Yet, if one has time, the story has a gentle interest. Mr. Hussey wrote "Miss Badsworth, M. F. H." His specialty is Dianas. His present heroine hunts foxes. Brought up on a cattle run in Australia, she is trained to horsemanship and has no trouble with the hedges and ditches of "Slopshire." The heroine comes home to England, incognito, in order the better to study two maiden aunts with whom she is expected to live. There are several young men who hunt in the neighborhood, and Polly marries one of them.

"RED HORSE HILL."

"Red Horse Hill," by Sidney McCall. Little, Brown & Co., publishers, Boston. Whitney & Grimwood, Colorado Springs. Price, $1.50.

The author of "Truth Dexter," in her new book, "Red Horse Hill," an American novel of intense dramatic interest, returns to men and women in the north and south. Maris Alden had been married in her girlhood to a man who deserted her and took away her child. Learning that he is dead, she married Dwight Alden, who had just become a resident of the south to assume the management of a large cotton-mill, owned by the New York firm of which he was the junior partner. Maris has searched in vain for several years to find her little girl "Felicia," and had given up all hope, when here she discovers the little one as a slave in Mr. Alden's mill.

The conflict of human interests, a deep love motive that runs through four related lives among the characters of this remarkable story, and the terrific power for good or evil held in the hands of the controller of southern mills, all bear a vital part in the drama.

The book is, primarily, a strong, human story, dealing with human nature and with love. The few chapters which aim to give the life of the women and girls in the factories are handled with pathos, realism, and power. It is an American novel that will be talked about.

A NEGLECTED WIFE

"The Journal of a Neglected Wife," by [illegible] Herbert Usher. The B. W. Dodge Company, publishers, New York. Whitney & Grimwood, Colorado Springs. Price $1.25 net.

A book, as a piece of music, must have its dominating motive. In "The Journal of a Neglected Wife," it is a persuasive, which persistently and insidiously fills the volume. "Oh, Horace, Horace, how can you degrade me so?" we read in one of the first entries in this most distressing revelation of a neglected wife's suffering. "How can you come home reeking with — [illegible] perfume?"

One will sympathize with the neglected wife. She is no longer young—in the middle forties—and no longer beautiful. When she sees a young woman dressed all in white in the street car she is painfully conscious of her own drab and withered self. She wishes she had bought pretty clothes instead of a silver tea service. She sees a young woman dressed in all "astonished—no, it needs a stronger word—astounded" to find the actress really is as young as the cigar boxes picture her, and she wonders how she does it.

The moral to be drawn from the sad case of the neglected wife seems to be the same which Mr. David Graham Phillips so forcibly put forth in his recent edifying tale, "Old Wives for New." No particular beauty doctor or dressmaker is recommended. Try Lillian Russell's or another's—and don't forget the perfume. It is sincerely to be hoped that "The Journal of a Neglected Wife" is an isolated case, and will not prove epidemic. Curiously enough, stories told in the form of confessions, letters, diaries, or journals seldom come singly but generally in shoals.

"THE WOMAN IN QUESTION"

"The Woman in Question," by John Reed Scott. The J. B. Lippincott Company, publishers, Philadelphia. Whitney & Grimwood, Colorado Springs. Price $1.50.

"The Woman in Question" is a romance, but not of Valeria nor mediaeval England. Mr. Scott has remained home in America, and the scenes are laid in the eastern United States. The story is distinctly modern in tone and theme, and centers in and around Fairlawn Hall, an old mansion with a marvelous garden, lying on the outskirts of Egerton, where the new master has come with a party of friends—to find mystery, misfortune, and love awaiting him.

"THE KINGDOM OF EARTH"

"The Kingdom of Earth," by Anthony Partridge. Little, Brown & Co., publishers, Boston. Whitney & Grimwood, Colorado Springs. Price $1.50.

The hero of this book is a European crown prince, of attractive personality, whose family is noted throughout the world for unprincipled and dissolute living. Its heroine is a beautiful girl whose training in sociology at Wellesley has aroused in her an ardent sympathy for the poor and the oppressed. Her success as an actress in London enables her to contribute largely to a society of revolutionists, of whose ranks she is an ardent member. One of the society's chief purposes is the death of the crown prince, and the talented young actress is lured to lure him to her apartments. She discovers in him an old acquaintance, and the dilemma in which she finds herself leads to amusing complications.

Upon this ground plan, Mr. Partridge has constructed a strikingly successful story, whose central idea is novel, whose characters are strongly drawn and whose various side issues are artistically interwoven with the main theme.

"LOVE'S PRIVILEGE."

"Love's Privilege," by Stella M. During. The J. B. Lippincott Company, publishers, Philadelphia. Whitney & Grimwood, Colorado Springs. Price $1.50.

This novel of Mrs. During's recently won a thousand-dollar prize in a leading Chicago newspaper's competition, and was pronounced as perhaps the most baffling mystery-story of recent years out of some 5,000 solutions received there were only 106 correct, or approximately correct. The plot is concerned with a murder which absolutely defies solution. The "false scents" are numerous, and one is led hither and thither in the mad race to place the responsibility of the crime. Unusual attention is given to character drawing, and the strained situation between the husband, who is suspected of the murder, and the wife, who believes him guilty from the first, is splendidly done. It is indeed a clean, well-written bit of fiction, just the thing for mental rest and amusement. The scenes are laid on an English estate near London. Frontispiece in color by Frank H. Desch.

"THE WINNING CHANCE"

"The Winning Chance," by Elizabeth Dejeans. The J. B. Lippincott Company, publishers, Philadelphia. Whitney & Grimwood, Colorado Springs. Price, $1.50.

Each season, one publisher or another claims that he has at last found the great American novel, but the public fails to agree, and the niche remains vacant. "The Winning Chance" is not the great American novel, but it is an unusually good novel nevertheless, dealing with a modern problem of such vital interest to all that it cannot help but win its way to great popularity. The story is strikingly original in theme and treatment, and pictures vividly the big problem of the American girl who enters upon a business career. There is a frontispiece in color by Gayle F. Hoskins.

"RIDGWAY OF MONTANA"

"Ridgway of Montana," by William MacLeod Raine. G. W. Dillingham Company, publishers, New York. Whitney & Grimwood, Colorado Springs. Price, $1.50.

Soon after his graduation from Cornell, Waring Ridgway is employed at Mesa, Mont., as a draftsman for the Consolidated, a powerful mining company. A born leader, Ridgway flings himself into the turbid life of the mining town. He finally acquires a small independent smelter, and an inheritance of $50,000 enables him to get possession of some mines. Thus he enters on a war against the Consolidated. He becomes dominant in local politics in spite of the fight the Consolidated makes against him through Lyndon Hobart, its local manager. Stung by Ridgway's continued victories over the Consolidated, Simon Harley, the aged chief, visits Montana to "wipe Ridgway off the map." Without knowing who she is, Ridgway saves the girl-wife of the financier from death in a blizzard, and falls in love with her. Partially through the service rendered his young bride, but more especially because he recognized Ridgway's ability, Harley proposed a compromise which offers the young man great riches and power, but Ridgway spurns the proposition. Harley then resorts to a fight in the mines, which results in the death of Vance Edwards and several other miners. Harley is charged with murder, but a bribed jury brings in a verdict of not guilty, upon hearing which Edwards' widow shoots the aged financier in court. Ridgway finally marries his enemy's young widow. The political contest, the love scenes, and the fine character drawing give this story of life in the mining country great strength and charm.

"THE ALTERNATIVE"

"The Alternative," by George Barr McCutcheon. Dodd, Mead & Co., publishers, New York. Whitney & Grimwood, Colorado Springs. Price, $1.25.

When a young man of prime social standing and an income of a meager $12,000 a year, ordinarily abstemious, but on this occasion exhilarated by an undue absorption of highballs, sets out to propose to a woman without definite selection, and finds himself in the same parlor with his own father, also on matrimony bent, a situation is created which appeals to the least curious of story readers. Especially is the appetite for details whetted when it is discovered that the lady upon whom father and son are calling is just then celebrating her wedding, with a number of wax dummies in the parlor, satirically representative of the society that has shunned her unmercifully. Then enters the lady's secretary, and there hushed a romance unexpected by the wife-seeking young man. Mr. McCutcheon handles this clever theme in his usual style, and holds his reader in thraldom to the satisfactory climax. Mr. Fisher sets forth a perfectly adorable young woman in his artistic pictures.

"DRIFTED IN"

"Drifted In," by Will Carleton. Moffat, Yard & Co., publishers, New York. Whitney & Grimwood, Colorado Springs. Price, $1.50 net.

The homely charm which gave Mr. Carleton's former poems a certain vogue is not lacking in this volume, which will commend itself to his many admirers. The circumstance giving the title to the book is the stalling of a railroad train by snow. Whereupon, to lessen the tedium of the hours of waiting, some of the passengers, after the fashion of the Immortal Canterbury pilgrims, and the almost equally famous wayfarers who met "one autumn night in Sudbury town," tell the tales which appear incidentally in the main body of the poem. Among those which rise above the general poetic level of the verse are "The Pauper Soldier," "To the Mound Builders" and "Converse With the Sea." Many of these "tales" are told in the New England vernacular of Mr. Carleton's popular "Farm Ballads." At last, however, the "drifted in" travellers are freed:

The morning broke with a cloudless sun,
And all was merry to our glad sight:
The mountains of drifted snow had gone
Enough to release us from our plight.
There came two rescuing engines near.
The storm was over—the track was clear!

Which, like the poem it ends, is pleasant rhyming, but not exactly poetry. The "After-Words" again prove the truth that there are times when silence is indeed "golden."

NEW INSTRUMENT
BOTH VIOLIN AND HORN

From the Chicago Daily News.

A novel musical instrument, which is a combination of brass and stringed instrument and a blend of the tones of both, has been devised by a North Dakota man. The affair consists of a neckpiece similar to that of a violin, fastened between twin horns, shaped with his fingers, as in using a banjo. In is at the point of intersection of the horns, two diaphragms connecting them. The lower end of the handle rests on a brace connecting the horns. The player can either use a bow, and play upon the instrument as he would a violin, or he can pick at the strings with his fingers, as in using a banjo. In either case the sound thus produced is transmitted through the horns, making a peculiar, mellow tone in which the vibrant note of the stringed instrument is noticeable. The best results can be obtained by using a bow and playing the instrument as a violin.

SOPHISTRY OF A SCHOLAR

From Judge.

A certain Catholic archbishop, when asked whether it was a grievous lie for a woman to misstate her age, replied: "A lie may be defined as a statement made by one rational being to another rational being, with the intent to deceive. Now, as no rational being would think of asking a woman her age with the expectation of being answered truthfully, one of the elements of the lie is lacking, and the woman's statement cannot, strictly speaking, be defined as such."

CURED ITCHING PAINFUL HUMOR

Which had Spread Over Face, Body and Arms—Swellings were as Large as a Dollar—When they Broke, Sores would Not Heal—Suffered 3 Years.

MADE SOUND AND WELL BY 3 SETS OF CUTICURA

"My trouble began about three years ago with little black swellings scattered over my face and neck. They would disappear, but they would leave little black scars that would itch at times so I couldn't keep from scratching them. Larger swellings would appear in the same place, and they were so painful I could hardly bear it and my clothes would stick to the sores. The first doctor I went to said the disease was scrofula, but the trouble only got worse and spread. By this time it was all over my arms and the upper part of my body in big swellings as large as a dollar. It was so painful that I could not lie on my back at night. The second doctor pronounced my disease inflammation of the lymphatic glands. He stopped the swellings, but when they would break the places would not heal. He tried everything that he could but to no effect. He said I might be cured but it would take a long time. I bought a set of the Cuticura Remedies and used them according to directions and in less than a week some of the places were nearly well. I continued with the Cuticura Remedies until I had used three sets, and now I am sound and well. The disease lasted three years from the time it commenced until I was cured. Before Christmas something broke out on my seven year old brother's hands in the form of large sores. I tried everything I could think of but to no effect until I happened to think of Cuticura and one application cured him. Also, not long ago, my sister got a bad burn on her ankle. I have been using Cuticura on that and it gave her scarcely any trouble. O. L. Wilson, Rutledge, Tenn., Feb. 8 1908."

Warm baths with Cuticura Soap, gentle anointings with Cuticura Ointment and mild doses of Cuticura Pills, afford immediate relief and point to a speedy cure of torturing, disfiguring humors of the skin, scalp and blood of infants, children and adults, when all else fails.

Cuticura Soap (25c.) to cleanse the skin, Cuticura Ointment (50c.) to heal the skin, and Cuticura Pills (25c.) (in the form of chocolate coated pills, 50c. per vial) to purify the blood, are sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston, Mass.

UNIVERSITY HAS GIFT OF RARE BOOKS

From the Philadelphia Record.

A novel gift reached the university of Pennsylvania recently in the shape of a full set of Arabian and Persian classics, in the original book of which is over 400 years old. The books are part of the E. F. Gibb memorial collection and were discovered in a second-hand book store in Germany by Dr. Morris Jastrow, librarian of the university, who is now lecturing at Munich and Heidelberg. The manuscripts while yellow with age are quite well preserved and for the most part legible. The Persian books relate the history of one Ibn Miskawayh, a historian and scientist who flourished about 1200. Learned Men of Iaquit is one of the Arabian title spells out.

Dr. Jastrow also secured several Turkish manuscripts which however were not Gibb's. They relate to the University of Pennsylvania excavation in Assyria and Babylonia. The entire collection, which is probably without equal, unless it be in the British museum, will be hurried out to Seattle and placed with the university exhibit at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition.

Overheard in the theater lobby: "This play is enough to drive a man to drink." "I'm glad to hear [illegible] You must have a grudge against management." "Not a [illegible] next door.

DISTRICT OUTPUT IS ABOUT NORMAL

TOTAL REDUCED BY ABSENCE OF STRATTON CO. FIGURES.

Gross Value of Ore Mined, so Far as Reported, $1,360,838—Tonnage, 57,835 Tons.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, June 1.—The production of the Cripple Creek gold mining district for the month of May, closing yesterday, has shown a slight falling off as compared with the figures of the preceding month, but were the figures on the tonnage treated at the mill of the British corporation, Stratton's Independence, obtainable, the output would be normal. For reasons best known to the management the only information to be obtained from the office of the company is, "we have nothing for publication." All other corporations handling the district's ores have no hesitancy in making their treatment figures public, and these figures follow.

Plant	Tons	Average Value.	Gross Value
Golden Cycle	22,250	$21 60	$480,168
U. S. R. & R.	14,515	22 00	305,330
Portland	10,500	20 00	210,000

Isabella	3,875	1 80	6,975
Totals	57,835	$23 737	$1,360,838

Due to the closing down temporarily of the Ironclad mill, during the absence of its manager east, the tonnage of milling-grade ore treated locally was light, and this has increased the average value of all ore treated from $22.90 per ton to $23.737.

FIND REPORTED IN THOMAS FRACTION

LARGE BODY OF ORE HAS BEEN OPENED UP.

Victor Gold Mining Company's Property Producing Large Quantities of Ore.

Special to The Gazette.

ALTMAN, Colo., June 1.—Charles Lindquist, operating the Thomas fraction on Bull cliffs under a sublease from the Western Investment company of Victor, has opened up a large body of milling grade ore near surface and will commence shipping this week. The lessee and his associates are pulling the ore out by windlass, but if the returns warrant will install machinery. The property is owned by the Victor Gold Mining company.

The main shaft of the Victor company this month produced between 400 and 500 tons of ore, carrying an average value of about $15 a ton. The shaft is operated under sublease from the Western Investment company by the Roscoe Leasing company.

An ore body reported 20 feet wide between walls has been opened up at the ninth level of the Wild Horse mine on Bull hill by Joe Couse and associate lessees. The ore will ship without sorting at about $12 a ton and the lessees working but a small force are pulling out about 15 tons a day. The ore is shipped to the Golden Cycle mill at Colorado City for treatment.

SHAFT IN REQUA SAVAGE IS BEING SUNK DEEPER

Special to The Gazette.

ANACONDA, Colo., June 1.—The Evelyn Leasing company, operating the Requa Savage Gold Mining company's property on Beacon hill, is sinking the shaft for another 100-foot lift from the present sixth level, but inasmuch as water will be reached within 50 feet, sinking will then temporarily cease. The leasing company is making a steady production of milling grade ore from the lower levels and is also prospecting its undeveloped ground by crosscut and drift.

INTEREST CENTERS IN U. S. STEEL SECURITIES

Prospect of Their Being Listed on Paris Bourse Affects Stock Market.

NEW YORK, June 1.—A fillip was given to the speculation by the news of the action being taken toward listing the United States Steel securities on the Paris bourse. The formation of a syndicate to introduce the United States Steel securities to the Paris bourse, under such capable auspices as those reported to the Associated Press represents a more serious effort than any heretofore made to overcome the many difficulties and intricacies of the bourse regulations and the French laws applying to foreign securities in that market.

One of the striking passages in the interview of E. H. Harriman with newspaper men before his sailing for Europe spoke in rather contemptuous terms of the supposition that his railroad companies need apply to foreign markets to secure a ready sale for their securities, since he could sell $150,000,000 Union Pacific bonds in New York in five minutes. It is still felt among bankers and financiers generally however that the development of this country is so far short of its ultimate opportunity that resort to foreign supplies of capital is still profitable, to an extent necessary.

The prospect of United States Steel being listed on the Paris bourse appealed to the speculative imagination. The price of that stock rose to 65¾ within a short time after trading began, compared with a previous record price of 64¾, at which it left off on Friday after a three point rise on that day. The price touched in London earlier in the day represented a New York parity of about 67.

This rate of advance might be supposed to invite some effective profit taking, however, well justified by new conditions. Profit-taking sales were, in fact, on a very heavy scale. The influence of the rise in Steel was supplemented by the renewal of important speculative operations in other important stocks.

Union Pacific signalized the departure of the head of that system for Europe by a rise of 2½ points. The strength of the stock was not impaired by the showing of a decrease of net earnings for April, compared with last year, the growth in operating cost being exceeded by the increase in gross earnings. There were other market advances in company with United States Steel and Union Pacific, but the upward movement did not become uniform at any stage, and suffered restraint in the dullness of the later trading. The calls issued by Mr. Harriman on the coup results to insure the expected demise of trade revival directed added attention to the strength of the wheat market, and to some further unfavorable crop news from the southwest. A late recovery to the best price in United States Steel left the general market irregular in tone. The June payments made no impression on the tone of the money market.

Bonds were firm. Total sales, par value, $6,020,000. United States 4s, coupon, declined ½ per cent on call.

WHEAT MARKET IS A SURPRISE TO TRADERS

Expected Reaction Fails to Occur; Instead, Prices Mount Higher.

CHICAGO, June 1.—The action of the wheat market was a surprise to many traders, inasmuch as it had been generally expected that prices would react somewhat from the high level attained during the deal in May delivery, owing to the ideal weather conditions prevailing for the new crop. Instead of declining, however, prices made sharp gains, particularly the July option, which at one time during the day was 3¼ cents above the close of the previous session. Other deliveries were firm throughout the entire session, but the advances were less radical, prices at the top showing gains of a trifle more than 1c compared with Saturday's close.

Bullish sentiment was rampant all day, notwithstanding the development of considerable news of a bearish tenor, and was based chiefly on unfavorable crop reports from the southwest. One of the principal factors in the situation was the Oklahoma report, which makes the condition of the winter wheat crop of that state 61 per cent on June 1, compared with 74 per cent a month ago, and 81 per cent last year, according to the government's estimate. Other strengthening influences were a continued brisk demand for the cash grain, a substantial decrease in the visible supply in the United States, and an unofficial estimate on the Hungarian crop, which showed a shortage of nearly 30,000,000 bushels, compared with last year's yield.

Demand for July wheat was especially active all day, one concern being credited with purchases aggregating nearly 2,000,000 bushels. During the day that option sold between $1.17⅝ and $1.19⅝. The market closed strong, with July at $1.19⅛@¼, a net gain for the day of 1⅝@2 cents. September closed ⅝c higher, at $1.09⅝.

The corn market was strong all day, and at the close prices were up ⅜ to 1⅜ @1¾c compared with Saturday's final figures. The range on the July delivery for the day was between 69⅝@70 and 71⅝@½, and the close was at 71⅜@¾.

Oats shared in the bullish sentiment prevailing in wheat and corn, but to a lesser degree. The market closed firm, with prices ¼@¼ to ⅝@⅔c above the final quotation of the previous session.

Provisions scored a substantial advance owing to buying by shorts and local packers. Pork displayed the greatest strength and at the close was 45 cents above Saturday's final figures. Lard and ribs closed 15@15 to 15@17½c higher.

On the Penobscot and Kennebec rivers in Maine, where the ice cut is controlled almost entirely by the American Ice company, the total tonnage harvested this year will not greatly exceed a total of 100,000. It is estimated that 75,000 tons was cut on the Kennebec and about 25,000 on the Penobscot.
